Tracking student reading is easy. Motivating readers and helping them conquer complex text independently is where teachers need something systematic to lean on. Jennifer Serravallo's Independent Reading Assessment delivers that system for grades 3-5, providing both the during-reading data and lessons teachers need to coach independent reading so all students hit year-end goals.

Complete with a library of leveled trade books, Teacher's Guide, and online videos, Independent Reading Assessment shows teachers how to identify those aspects of fiction and nonfiction where readers are struggling, then offers 200 engaging lessons that catapult students to much higher levels of complex-text comprehension.

How Independent Reading Assessment works:

- 1 ASSESS: Students select an authentic trade book and as they read, use the Student Response Form to complete comprehension questions affixed to the book.
- 2 EVALUATE: Teachers compare each student's responses to corresponding rubrics in the Teacher's Guide and complete the Comprehension Record and Planning Form.
- 3 TEACH: Teachers set each student's learning goals based on their evaluation and refer to lessons in the Teacher's Guide to create instructional plans.

With Independent Reading Assessment, teachers will teach with a newfound precision as they guide students book by book to the high-level thinking and reading at the heart of today's rigorous standards.
