Your resource for after school,
summer school, and extended day programs

Dear After School/Out-of-School-Time Educator,

Scholastic After School Learning is thrilled to launch our new catalog for the 2010 year. Whether you're serving hundreds of students or just a handful, we're confident you'll find all the resources and tools needed to implement an engaging and effective program.

Every day after school educators are transforming the lives of their students. President Obama and Education Secretary Duncan recognize the critical role "expanded learning time" programs play in cultivating student resilience. Your program offers students a safe haven as well as a fresh, innovative approach to learning that supports the regular school day.

Consider us a partner in this endeavor—your "Literacy Link to Success,"—creatively blending academic requirements and content standards with after school engagement and learning.

Together we will continue to find new ways to engage and motivate students, to provide practical professional development support and training tools for your staff, and to enhance students' reading and critical thinking skills—so they are better prepared in the classroom as well as in life.

Sincerely,

Evan St. Lifer
Vice President
