

After School Learning Professional/Staff Development

For Instructors

Give after school instructors all the tools and strategies they need to lead an exciting and effective literacy-based program.

The Scholastic After School Learning Professional Development (PD) Program is designed to help after school instructors create meaningful learning environments that motivate and inspire students.

This program targets both after school instructors with little or no formal teaching experience, as well as teachers who need literacy support. It also cultivates instructors' confidence and creativity, providing them with the tools and strategies they need to encourage avid student engagement and participation.
