

Dr. Nell K. Duke

- Professor of Teacher Education and Educational Psychology, Michigan State University
- Co-Director of the Literacy Achievement Research Center (msularc.org)
- Product(s): Buzz About IT!™: Read-Aloud books buzzing with informational text
- Specialization: Early Childhood Literacy
Nonfiction
Comprehension

Nell K. Duke, Ed.D., is a professor of teacher education and educational psychology, an affiliate of the program in school psychology, and co-director of the Literacy Achievement Research Center (LARC) at Michigan State University. Duke received her Bachelor's degree from Swarthmore College and her Masters and Doctoral degrees from Harvard University. Duke's work focuses on early literacy development, particularly among children living in poverty. Her specific areas of expertise include development of informational literacies in young children, comprehension development and instruction in early schooling, and issues of equity in literacy education.

Duke is the recipient of the American Educational Research Association Early Career Award, the National Reading Conference Early Career Achievement Award, the National Council of Teachers of English Promising Researcher Award, the International Reading Association Dina Feitelson Research Award, and the International Reading Association Outstanding Dissertation Award.

Dr. Nell K. Duke continued from page 1

She is co-author of the books Reading and Writing Informational Text in the Primary Grades: Research-Based Practices; Literacy and the Youngest Learner: Best Practices for Educators of Children from Birth to Five; Beyond Bedtime Stories: A Parent's Guide to Promoting Reading, Writing, and Other Literacy Skills from Birth to 5; and co-editor of the book Literacy Research Methodologies.

Duke teaches preservice, inservice and doctoral courses in literacy education at Michigan State, speaks and consults widely on literacy education, and is an active member of several literacy-related organizations. Duke also has a strong interest in improving the quality of educational research training in the U.S.