First Dog

Pretend you are the new President of the United States of America. You were elected because of promises you made to voters. If you want to earn the trust of the people who voted for you, you have to keep your promises!

One promise you made was to your family. You said you would get a dog if you won the election. Now that you're President, it's time to adopt a dog for your family!

DIRECTIONS: Which lucky dog gets to live in the White House? Draw your presidential pet below.

I picked this dog because _____
