Presidential Progress Report

The first 100 days of a presidential administration are said to be the most important. Choices made during this time set a tone for a new administration and can make or break a President's image.

Now that President Obama's first 100 days are almost over, it's time for a presidential progress report! Give the President's administration grades based on how well you think his team has tackled some of the major issues facing the country.

Directions: Use your knowledge about current events to fill in the chart below. For each major issue, grade President Obama's administration on a scale of 1 to 5 (1 is the lowest grade and 5 is the highest). Don't forget to explain your grade to the President! (List related evidence to support your grade.) We willled in one of the boxes for you.

The Issue	Your Grade	Your Comments to the President
Economy
Environment
Health Care
Military Conflicts		You promised to close the military prison in Cuba during your presidential campaign, and on your first day as President, you ordered that it be closed by the end of the year. That was a good start! You've got a lot more work to do with the conflicts in Iraq and Afghanistan.
