

The President's Hats

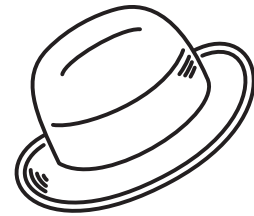

The President has many important jobs. Some people say he wears many different hats! You can read about these hats below.

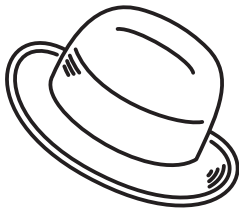

The President makes speeches. In a speech, the President talks about what he wants to do for the United States.

The President is in charge of the whole military! He can send soldiers anywhere in the world.

The President helps make laws. A law is like a rule. For example, you have to stop at a red light. That's a rule.

The President decides how to spend money. He can give money to schools or cities to make the country better.

The President travels to other countries. He meets with other Presidents.

The President has parties. He even gives awards to Americans.

Now, read the sentences below. Use crayons to color each hat the right color.

1. The President gives a special award to a teacher. Color this hat red.
2. The President travels to Mexico. Color this hat blue.
3. The President gives money to schools. Color this hat green.
4. The President sends a soldier to the Pacific Ocean. Color this hat pink.
5. The President signs a law. The law helps families. Color this hat purple.
6. The President tells the country about his plans. Color this hat yellow.