Think It Through

Use the stories in this week's issue of Scholastic News to answer the questions below. Write your answers on the lines provided.

1. First Lady Michelle Obama has set up a garden at the White House, hoping it will encourage children to eat more fresh vegetables. Can you think of other ways to encourage kids to eat more, locally grown vegetables?

2. What are some other healthy choices you can make in your own life?

3. Students at Starside Elementary School buried spoons and plates made from plastic, Styrofoam, and sugar-based products. Which products do you think won't turn to dirt by the end of the school year? Explain.

4. "Starside Goes Green" is the motto at Starside Elementary School because the students there are doing their part to help the environment and the Earth. What are some things you can do to become more green?

5. What green lessons, experiments, or projects would you like to see at your school?
