TO SEE WHAT HE COULD SEE

Do you know your world capitals? If so, use your city smarts to discover the identity of one of the world's greatest explorers. In the mid- to late-18th century, this English seaman explored the coasts of Oceania's New Zealand and Australia, the Great Barrier Reef, the ice fields of Antarctica's Ross Sea, and the coasts of Canada. He also is credited with being the first European to reach Hawaii.

To find out the name of this intrepid explorer, fill in the capitals of the countries listed at right (one letter per line). Then rearrange the circled letters to spell out his rank (abbr.) and name.
