Name That Sentence

There are four kinds of sentences:

1. Declarative sentences make statements.

Example: The capital of Ohio is Columbus.

2. Interrogative sentences ask questions.

Example: Did you know that Columbus is the capital of Ohio?

3. Imperative sentences give commands.

Example: Clean your room now.

4. Exclamatory sentences show emotion or surprise.

Example: That's my favorite song!

Directions: Read each of the following sentences from the Your World section of Scope. Then, label each sentence as declarative, interrogative, imperative, or exclamatory. (Hint: Some sentences may be more than one kind of sentence.)
