

Julie Barbella

Implementation Manager,
Scholastic Achievement Partners

Julie can help you with:

Using data to drive academic decisions

School and administrative leadership development plans

Raising student achievement to meet new standards

Julie Barbella strives to help schools and districts improve teacher and student performance. As Implementation Manager, Julie and her team of consultants support differentiated instruction and program fidelity with face-to-face professional development and job-embedded coaching. Julie reviews reports and test scores to make sure district implementations are producing data-driven results. Julie strives to ensure that there is ongoing dialogue between the national team and school leaders in order to secure higher levels of student achievement and success.

Julie's passion for education started when she began her career in the classroom teaching Grades 4–6 at St. Finbar Elementary School in New York City. This experience inspired her to move forward and find unique ways to bridge the achievement gap. Julie entered the field of educational publishing and, before assuming her current role, worked in the field providing analysis of data-driven instruction and delivering classroom program implementation support and training. Her extensive experience includes achievements as an implementation manager, consultant, account representative, and training manager.

Julie graduated cum laude from Georgian Court College, where she received her bachelor of arts in Humanities.
